By jumping on board, our teachers yet again show their commitment to up-skilling and ultimately improving the learning of our students.

THE THINKING TASK was......
Scooters in the playground.
YES or NO? - Why?

This week’s writing comes from 3/4S
I think it is dumb to ride scooters in the playground. People ride on them and smash into Mr Hogan when he is on duty. You can also go too fast and smash into someone else and they might get brain damage. You can try to do a trick and fall over into heaps of prickles. You could also die by smashing into a door.....
By Isaac Suckling

If you could ride your scooter in the playground it would mean there would be no fighting. Everyone would be too busy laughing and crying and it would be funny when teachers have to do the paperwork...
Idea by Kira Dickie

To begin with, scooters should be banned because people could fall off and break a bone. If you break a bone, the ambulance would have to come back and forward, back and forward.
Also, it would be too much paperwork for Mr Hogan....
Ideas from Hannah Dunmore

99% of children who ride scooters in the playground are stupid, so get out there and tell them off.
They are stupid because they run people over, every day....
Ideas from Isabel Auldist

I agree that scooters should be banned because you could break your bones, go over the handle bars and break your neck and your arms. Then you would have to go to hospital to get plaster for a year....
Ideas by Dominic Read

Well, I think that scooters should be banned because you could hurt yourself, break your back, land in a ditch and fly over the front handles...
Great beginning by Shaianne Schwartzkopff
